Innovations in Interprofessional Health Care Education

THE GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY SEMINAR SERIES
Hosted by GW School of Nursing

Seminar 1: Patient Aligned Care Teams ‘PACT’
12-1 PM, Wednesday, October 19, 2016
GW School of Nursing, 1919 Pennsylvania Avenue NW, Suite 546, Washington, DC or Online via WebEx (Link sent post-registration)
Pending approval for 1 Continuing Nursing Education (CNE) credit

To register, go to: go.gwu.edu/ipeseminars

Patient Aligned Care Teams (PACT) are “the cornerstone of the New Models of Care transformation initiative intended to transform the way Veterans receive their care. It assists the Veterans Health Administration in transforming Veterans' care by providing patient-driven, proactive, personalized, team-based care oriented toward wellness and disease prevention resulting in improvements in Veteran satisfaction, improved healthcare outcomes and costs. The PACT model is built on the well-known concept of the patient centered medical home staffed by high-functioning teams” (VA, 2015). In this model, medical students, physician assistant and nurse practitioner students and others are taught in a clinical area with faculty mentors who directly supervise student, conduct seminars and promote interdisciplinary practice. Faculty for this seminar will be medical and nursing educators recruited from a VA PACT team in the region.

Panelists:

Penny Kaye Jensen, DNP, APRN, FNP-C, FAAN, FAANP
Liaison for National APRN Policy, Office of Nursing Services, Department of Veterans Affairs

Lawrence “Bopper” Deyton, MSPH, MD
Senior Associate Dean for Clinical Public Health, Professor of Medicine, Professor of Health Policy and Management, GW School of Medicine and Health Science

Moderators:
Majeda El-Banna, PhD, RN, Director of Nursing Advancement (RN to BSN/MSN) Program
Joyce Pulcini, PhD, RN, PNP-BC, FAAN, Director of Community and Global Initiatives
School of Nursing, The George Washington University

For questions or more information, contact sonsas@gwu.edu.